- We work a LOT with AWS so you'll surely need the AWS DevOps Engineer Professional certification.
- A lot of our projects are in & around Kubernetes so you'll also need the Certified Kubernetes Administrator (CKA) badge. The CKAD & some OpenShift knowledge would be good to have. The CKS certification would be a big plus.
- We're a team of highly-motivated, proactive, hands-on, individual contributors. We would expect the same of you.
- As the creator & maintainer of foundational systems used by many dev teams across the org, you'll be called to guide/support developers on all kinds of issues: AWS, Kubernetes, or just plain Linux.
- You should have at least 7 years of industry experience including 5+ years of AWS & 3+ years of Kubernetes experience. A software development background would also be really helpful.
- A big part of what we do on a daily basis, is build cloud infrastructure, so you must be very comfortable writing advanced Terraform & CloudFormation. Building custom Terraform modules, might also be required from time to time.
- We're big on automation too, so you'll need a good grasp of Python & Bash, and the AWS services that aid in event-driven automation, like Lambda, EventBridge & Step Functions.
- We lay the infrastructural foundation for new projects, including providing a great developer experience, especially in terms of ease of deployment. Our projects use a plethora of tools & services to automate deployments. You should have experience/knowledge of GitLab, GitHub, Azure DevOps & AWS Code services.

- You'll also be building robust monitoring systems for large-scale production systems. And you might get called sometimes to investigate & fix operational issues. You should be comfortable working with CloudWatch, deploying, configuring & using Prometheus & Grafana, and thirdparty infra & APM monitoring systems like Datadog.
- IaC is awesome, but so is CaC. We build & maintain a lot of pretty advanced Ansible playbooks, used by many teams across the org. Ensure you have some sort of CaC experience. Ansible is ideal. Chef & Puppet might work too.
- Security is a BIG deal at QloudX! You must have experience building secure systems from the ground up, both in the cloud & in Kubernetes. This includes stuff like application code & dependencies static analysis in pipelines, vulnerability scanning of Docker images & running containers, and tools like Checkov for Terraform & OPA/Kyverno for Kubernetes.
